LIGHTHOUSE TO URUGUAY

Home Sweet Home

In June we left the flat land and big skies of Texas and after visiting family and friends, we finally made it back home to the rolling mountains and traffic jams of Northern Virginia. It is good to be home! We have settled into my (Chris) parents' home and are enjoying getting into a routine. One of the great blessings of being back in this area is attending and being involved with our sending church, Community Baptist Church. We have enjoyed seeing familiar faces as well as many new ones.

Since being back, I have had the opportunity to preach for my pastor while he was on a church missions trip to Trinidad, help reformat the mapping system the church uses for outreach and baptize a couple of young ladies at the church. The Baptism was especially special since it was my first time baptizing and I was able to do a part of it in Spanish. The family of the two young girls that I baptized is from Peru; therefore, I could use the Spanish that I have learned to perform this Baptism. I was a little nervous to say the actual baptizing part in Spanish, because I was afraid I would forget what to say while they were under water, and not be able to "raise them from the dead." As you can see from the video on our website, I still messed up a little with it because my brain got confused between the English and Spanish.

Moving Forward

Over the last couple of months we have been working very hard in preparation of leaving for Uruguay. We have been working on getting all the paperwork gathered to send to the Uruguayan consulate, talking with shipping companies, eyeing plane tickets, calling churches and praying. There are still a lot of pieces to the puzzle that we are trying to put together, but we are thankful to serve a God who already sees the final work.

Prayer Requests

- God to provide our remaining financial support
- Growth as we study Spanish
- Erika and Jeremiah's health
- Boys' health
- Preparations for heading to Uruguay
- A continuous zeal for lost souls
